Leading tomorrow's universities

ABOUT THE PROGRAMME

The main aim of the Advanced Course in University Executive Leadership (ACUEL) is to assist university leaders to understand and address the complex challenges confronting the contemporary university in a changing global and national higher education system. This advanced course also contributes to succession planning at universities by creating a leadership pool for future executive and senior management candidates. The course emphasises the knowledge and skills university leadership teams require to be more responsive and effective amid complexity and change.

PROGRAMME CONTENT

- Leading universities in complexity and change
- Operations and resource management in universities
